Killed on the Wheel

Nelson Daily News.

Greenwood, Jan. 10. (Special to the Daily News).—James Laidlaw, employed at the Boundary Falls smelter, was accidentally killed at the works early this morning.

Laidlaw was working on the night shift in the pumping mill, and was on the upper floor to repair the belt that had been slipping. Twenty minutes afterwards another of the men found a mitt and part of a boot on the lower floor, and went up to see what had happened. He found the body of Laidlaw entangled in a four-foot pulley and being carried around with the wheel. The wheel was at once stopped and the body removed, but life was extinct. It is supposed that the man's hand was caught between the belt and the pulley and the mechanism drawn in.

The body must have been whirling about for half an hour before the fatality was discovered. The deceased's limbs were broken, his skull crushed and flesh cut and bruised, showing the violence attending the death of the unfortunate man.

Deceased was only 21 years of age, a steady and industrious young fellow, who, with one of his brothers, worked more than two years at McPherson Brothers' sawmill at Boundary Falls until the mill shut down last year, and had been employed in the smelter for about six months. His parents, brothers and sisters are living at Grand Falls, N. W. T. Dr. Foster, district coroner, had a jury empanelled this afternoon, and the jury after visiting the scene of the accident and viewing the body, adjourned further inquiry till Monday morning.

UNCONSCIOUSLY HUMOROUS

Unconscious humor is the funniest of any, especially when it comes from an unexpected source. As unconscious humorists the members of the western elevator combine in their resolution recently presented to the minister of interior probably had the best. Rightly or wrongly this combine is credited with being the means of robbing the wheat growers of Western Canada of from ten to twenty per cent of the actual world value of their product. It is an old saying that where there is smoke there must be fire. And it is inconceivable that such an idea could have been so universally prevalent for so many years and have grown in strength each year if it had not had some foundation in fact. Not only did the combine rob the farmer on the one hand but they conspired to rob the British consumer on the other. By systematically scalping the grades they deteriorated the reputation of Manitoba wheat in England to such an extent that legislation to check them and preserve the high standing of Western Canadian wheat had to be provided. The British consumer could protect himself—as he did—by paying a little less than the wheat turned out to be worth, as compensation for the chance taken. But as long as the elevator combine and the railways were left alone the farmer was completely at their mercy and was systematically and scientifically whittled. The evil was so great that in 1898 legislation was introduced on the subject. It was side tracked. Introduced again and side tracked. Introduced again and side tracked. But finally the strain became so great that last session further legislation was introduced. The combine protest against it is the evidence that at last the finger of legislation has touched the core spot.

What is so very funny about the protest of the combine is that they evidently do not realize that their protest is all that is necessary to ensure the farmers lining up in solid front for the continuance, enforcement and improvement of the legislation complained of. Their childlike objection to interference with trade as being unfair to them, is humorous to the point of pathos. What in the name of sense was the legislation introduced for but to interfere with their peculiar methods of what they are pleased to designate as trade, but which many other people look upon as robbery? If the legislation did not interfere it had no purpose. Their desire to be relieved from such interference is so entirely natural as to be ludicrous. Of course they want to be relieved from interference. It would be strange if they didn't. But it would be just as strange if those who represent the producers and voters of Manitoba, and the Territories withdrew the checks that have been imposed for the public protection and in the public interest. The louder the combine roars against existing enactment the more it proves their value.

A TRIBUTE TO ALBERTA

Various requests have been made by people of eastern Canada and the States on reading or hearing of Alberta's fame, to hear what the actual settler himself, who has preceded them, has to say regarding the truth of these reports. The following letters, voluntarily handed the Bulletin for publication, file the ball and prove that the newspapers and immigration pamphlets of Alberta do not over-estimate the resources and opportunities of the country.

Independence, Alta., Jan. 13, '03.
This is the truly great Canadian Northwest where there are the best opportunities for poor men, or men of moderate means, to make a comfortable home in a short time, of any country in the civilized world. I came here from Southwest Missouri three years ago last March. My means consisted of two horses, harness and nearly enough to live on until the following November, and I raised a crop. I rented a farm on shares the first season. After 7 feet the crop in a cornfield broke in on my homestead which I had entered in April, broke about sixty acres the first summer, and built on it. Have raised three crops on it and had about 115 acres under cultivation. Last month, I sold out my place for $1,600, and my stock and implements would make close to a thousand dollars.

Now if a man over 60 years old with no help but himself alone, can do this well, what cannot a young or middle aged man do, or a man who brings considerable means, and has help? The land here is the most productive and crops more certain than any place I ever saw, and the easiest new country for a poor man to make a start, and I have lived in Ontario, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and Missouri and have been in many other States. Now for wheat, oats, barley, rye, potatoes, turnips, rutabagas, mangolds, beets, carrots, parsnips, onions, cabbages, etc., I think it beats the world, and as a stock country I never saw the equal. There is abundance of coal and wood for fuel, also plenty of upland and tamarac timber for building and fencing purposes, and plenty of good water. For wild small fruit or berries I never saw the like. Strawberries, raspberries, high and low bush cranberries, gooseberries, black currants, two varieties of blueberries, and Saskatoon all grow plentiful most everywhere.

Now as an instance of how fast this country is settling up, I was the first settler in this township (16 miles square). Now I can see the neighbors' houses in various directions, and can hear the dogs barking, roosters crowing and even men singing in all directions, and there are settlers 25, 30, 30 miles north of me now, also a school church and post office.

As to climate, it is difficult for a person who lives in Manitoba or the Northwestern States, including that blizzard cursed country of Southern Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska and the Dakotas, that there is or can be a country 1500 to 2000 miles northwest of them (the direction from which nearly all their blizzards and severe cold weather appears to come from) with an even and comparatively mild climate. As I heard a lady express it, who was raised in Ontario, lived 8 or 9 years in Manitoba, and moved to Alberta three years ago, "Why," said she, "the winter here are really delightful." A man from Nebraska who had been here six years when I came told me he never saw a day in winter that he could go to Edmonton, 18 miles, do his business and go home the same day. Three or four hundred miles northwest of here they say the country and climate is just as good, and the summer season cannot be beat anywhere.

As to the growth and prosperity of the town of Edmonton, situated on the north bank of the Saskatchewan river, the population has more than doubled since I came here. In 1902 there were between three and four hundred new buildings erected including some very fine brick blocks, amongst which are a $30,000 school, a $20,000 church, and $12,000 rink. The city owns its own electric light plant; sewerage and waterworks. There are four banks and two more about to be established. The railroad crosses the river on a railroad and wagon bridge and there are now some five or six different railroad surveying outfits at work east, west and north of here surveying and locating railroads. All these things out all winter. Let me say we have a strong and growing sentiment here in favor of government ownership and operation of the railroads. We have two semi-weekly and one daily newspapers.

And now Mr. Editor I want to thank the means of reaching the thousands of my countrymen in the United States working and working men in the cities, who, while they stay and pick up a few pennies, seldom ever get anything ahead, but who, if they would take advantage of the opportunities which are here, could in a few years become able to live with a degree of comfort which should be within the reach of all who live by productive industry.

Every head of a family here can get a homestead of 160 acres and get the patent after three years by residing on it six months in each year and making the necessary improvements. Also every young man over 18 years can get his 160 acres and live with his parents whilst improving his place, and get his deed to same after three years.

We have a post office established, a school and church in our township.

Respectfully,

(Sgd.) R. C. OWENS.

LEWIS

The Lewis hockey team went to Conjugating Creek last week and played their first game of the season with the Conjugating Creek team. The score resulted in a tie 5 to 5. The Conjugating Creek lads are a strong combination and show that they have done considerable practicing. Lewis, though not as heavy or having had as much practice, held them down well in a fast game as the score indicates. The Conjugating Creek club will face the Lewis on Saturday next, when good sport is anticipated.

Politics in Ontario

Tribune, Jan. 14.—Premier Ross comes out of the bye-elections with a majority of four, counting North York vacant. By winning all three of the recent elections he has placed himself in a reasonably safe position, but there are several little things that may disturb his peace of mind for some time yet. North York is practically in the vacant column. Though Hon. E. J. Davis has not yet placed his resignation in the hands of the clerk of the house, he has agreed to do so, and in case he neglects the formality his opponents may do it for him, a duplicate of the resignation being in Mr. Lennox's hands. North Renfrew is vacant by the death of its member, and there is something in the way of Mr. Ross counting on winning that constituency. Dr. Channellhouse is in the field as an independent, liberal, and as the party is looking everywhere for another man, there is more than an even chance that two liberals will be in the field in East Middlesex. Dr. Routledge won the seat for the liberals in the last election. The constituency has been conservative for a generation, and should the judges decide to open it the conservatives have a fighting chance to win it back. There are still petitions pending against Andrew McNamee in South St. Marie and against Hugh Clark in Centre Bruce, trial fixed for Jan. 27. The liberals have appeals in the Lennox and South Oxford cases. The members-elect were declared safe by the trial judges, but the government has one more chance to win these.

It is not likely that Mr. Ross will meet the house with more than his present four majority. When he elects his speaker he will have three majority to work on. If he should decide to postpone the session of the house until he has had the opportunity of accumulating a few more supporters, through the medium of bye-elections that must follow, he stands to gain four constituencies. Giving him Centre—Bruce, South St. Marie, Lennox and South Oxford, which is the best possible thing that can happen to him, and granting that he will hold North Renfrew, North York and East Middlesex, he would have 56 supporters and Mr. Whitney 42. If Mr. Whitney holds the four constituencies that are now in the courts, and wins North Renfrew, North York and East Middlesex, he will have 49 supporters and Mr. Ross will have 49. If he holds what he has and fails to gather in North Renfrew, North York and East Middlesex, he will have 46 supporters and Mr. Ross will have 52. That would give a liberal majority of 6, with one off for the speaker.

In view of the bye-elections to be held before the house is complete, it is interesting to note what majorities were previously given in those constituencies. North Renfrew gave the late Mr. Munro 46, and in 1900 he was elected by a combination on the death of Andrew J. White, conservative. Hon. E. J. Davis won out in North York on May 29 by 207 majority, which was a drop from 469 in the previous election. Dr. Routledge won East Middlesex by a majority of 34, whereas this constituency gave a conservative majority of 66 in the general election of 1896.

Opposed to Subsidies

St. John, N. B., Jan. 14.—At a special meeting of the St. John board of trade yesterday, the Grand Trunk transcontinental and trans-Canada schemes were discussed, several members presented their views very strongly against the granting of land and money subsidies to any company or the building of a through railway.

James P. Robertson submitted a resolution to the effect that a subsidy of cash and land grants to the Boys' Clothing

That Interests Parents.

Every parent knows just how hard his boy is on clothes and we add that few fathers or mothers in reality care if their boys are a little rough in their play and clothes don't wear quite so long as they may have at first expected, for no right minded person likes an effeminate boy, for it is the sturdy, rough and ready little fellows who develop into the most useful class of Canadian citizenship. Our caution is—don't pay too much for boys' clothes, but get them good clothes at a fair price from a reputable firm which does not hesitate to replace with a new suit any which does not wear well. Now that the school season has opened again, the boy may need a new suit, nor can you make more advantageous investment than by the saving you make for these necessities at

A Famine in Sweden

London, Jan. 14.—Telegrams from Stockholm, Sweden, confirm the distressing accounts of the famine in northern Sweden. About 70,000 persons are affected by the famine, which extends from the sixty-first to the sixty-seventh degree north latitude, and from the Gulf of Bothnia and the Russian border far into the interior. The starving people are eating pine bark, which is dried, ground to powder, mixed with seaweed and made into a kind of famine bread.

Coincident with the failure of the crops in the extreme scarcity of fish. The fishermen returned from their expeditions empty handed. Even ptarmigan—groups of the northern regions—usually found in great numbers in the stricken district, have almost completely disappeared. It is estimated that the expenditure of about $6,300,000 will be necessary to save the population from starvation. Thus far about $200,000 has been subscribed, of which sum over $12,500 was sent by Sweden to the United States. This amount does not include the money necessary to save the cattle or supply seed for the spring sowings. The peasants are making pathetic sacrifices to avert the extermination of the hardy northern cattle. In previous times of scarcity good fodder was obtainable by mixing reindeer moss and aspen bark. Now this is not available and hardy chopped twigs or larch, willow and ash are substituted. The mixture is boiled and fed to the cattle warm, but it is found that milk of cattle thus fed leads to typhoid fever. This and other diseases are certain to spread, unless relief is hastened. The situation threatens a repetition of the terrible famine of 1867, when thousands died from starvation and typhoid. A special commissioner of the Swedish government who has just returned from the scene of the distress, emphasizes the necessity of the adoption of immediate plans to abate the dire straits. His report has caused the most painful impressions and will, it is hoped, enhance the national effort to provide remedial measures. Up to the present 1,500 applicants, valued at over $100,000, represents the total quantity of provisions and fodder shipped to the famine stricken areas.

Big Immigration Coming

Edmonton, Jan. 15.—Hon. Clifford Sifton, speaking of his tour through the States, says there will be an immense influx of Americans into the west this year. It will be completely unprecedented in the history of this country, and will tax the resources. It is expected that there will be a great demand for farm property in all sections of the west. Wherever the minister went he found people inquiring about Manitoba and the west. Last year's big tour was a great advertisement for the country.

The Coal Famine in New York

New York, Jan. 15.—On account of the coal shortage the university of Pennsylvania was in darkness last night, says a Philadelphia despatch to the American. If coal cannot be obtained today the institution will be compelled to close and three thousand students will be out of classes. New York, Jan. 15.—The statement that thousands of tons of anthracite coal were awaiting delivery to retail dealers at the docks of the New Jersey Central railroad at Elizabethport, N. J., has been verified in detail by a photograph of the yards practically blocked by loaded cars. There were nearly four hundred cars in the yards and more than one hundred additional ones on the main tracks leading into the yards waiting to be taken in by drill engines. Averaging the five hundred cars capacity at 60,000 pounds each, would make the total coal in Elizabethport at the hour of the count 15,000 tons.

At other points also there is a congestion of coal laden cars, which the officers of some of the coal carrying roads say is mainly due, to the confusion caused by the separation of cars containing independent coal from those bearing the company coal. Notwithstanding the promise made by President Baer, of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Co., who as the spokesman of the coal operators, told Mayor Low that the coal yards in the tenement districts would be supplied with coal for the year, there is great suffering in New York because thousands are unable to obtain fuel.
